

PRESIDENT FOR BIG NAVY

He Urges Congress to Pass the Senate Measure

WANTS EIGHT CAPITAL SHIPS

Four Superdreadnoughts and Four Battle Cruisers Immediately

Washington, July 26.—Official word went to the capital yesterday that President Wilson stands behind the construction programme of the naval bill as it passed the Senate, including four dreadnoughts and four battle cruisers to be built immediately.

Prolonged conferences were looked for between Senate and House members named to find an agreement on the bill. Final accord was not considered likely perhaps for weeks. Senate conferees will hold out for increases added to the House measure. House members will fight particularly the Senate's building programme plan, but Senate leaders believe that with the administration behind them most of the increases over the House bill will be retained.

The Navy League of the United States, which has advocated many of the measures of the Senate naval bill for years, yesterday decided to ask its members throughout the country to urge the passage of the Senate bill through the House of Representatives. Navy league members are asked to express their approval of the Senate bill to their congressmen in order that these men may feel that the sentiment of the country and their districts in particular is behind their favorable action in regard to the bill.

Copies of the leading editorial in the August number of "Sea Power," the Navy league official organ, which strongly supports the Senate naval bill, were sent out broadcast to members yesterday with the request that the members read it and then work to arouse support in their communities for the bill. As the Navy league numbers now with its woman's section and other affiliated branches, many thousands of members, this action of the executive committee of the Navy league will result in the rallying of enthusiastic supporters to the bill in many parts of the country and will do much to further its passage.

The senators asked the president to pardon Trent, now serving a term for misuse of the mails.

BASEBALL BRIEFS

The best that the Red Sox could do with Toronto was to tie them, 5 to 5. Jim Cooney was bought by the Red Sox in the fall of 1913 and returned to the Worcester team in the New England league at the close of the training season in 1914, and has remained in Worcester ever since.

Sam Rice, a pitcher, has been playing the outfield for Griffith of late and is playing a great game in the outer garden as well as doing some nice hitting.

The first match ball game ever played in New England took place in Boston Sept. 8, 1858, when the Trinitarian team of Boston met the Portland, Me. team and lost the game by a score of 47 to 42. The Trinitarian team was organized and drilled by Edward A. Saltzman of New York. The club practiced for about a year before they played a single game. Finally a team was organized in Portland and teams were gradually organized throughout New England from this time on. For the three years before the war there was a great deal of hard feeling between the members of the two styles of play but finally it was decided that the New York game was more scientific than the Massachusetts game and the New York game gradually climbed to what it is today. The first professional ball in New England was played in 1871 and then there was nothing thought of gate receipts, it being more of a pastime for men after getting out of the shops at night than anything else.

IRISH STATUS IS WORSE

Country Now in Hands of a Makeshift Government

AFFAIRS STILL UNDER MILITARY

London Press Blames Cabinet for The Muddle

London, July 26.—Apparently the status of Ireland has gone steadily from bad to worse ever since the Sinn Féin rising on Easter Sunday, for at present the country is in the hands of a temporary and makeshift government composed of a commission of judges assisted by Major General Sir John Maxwell, commander of the British forces in Ireland, who still is maintaining military control over most of the ordinary police functions. There is no victory in the place of Baron Wimborne, former lord lieutenant of Ireland and since Premier Asquith's announcement that the Dublin castle system of government had been an utter failure none is likely to be appointed. The office of Augustine Birrell, ex-chief secretary for Ireland remains unfilled and Herbert Samuel, the head of the home office, who has no special knowledge of Irish affairs, represents the interest of Ireland in the cabinet and before the House of Commons. Great Britain finds itself at one of the most critical stages of the war again distracted by wranglings over the old problem and with no light ahead. The Nationalist members in the House of Commons who as a party thus far have supported the government's war and democratic measures, threaten to shift their position and to become an opposition party. The position of the Nationalists, moreover, is anomalous. Discontent in Ireland over the government's dealings with the insurrection has become so widespread, according to all reports, that the Nationalists have lost the confidence of their constituents and probably would be repudiated if they stood for re-election to-day.

Irish Problem in Worse Tangle.

The English newspapers of all factions blame the cabinet for its management of the Irish question and regret the failure of a compromise, the only conspicuous exception being the Morning Post, which consistently has demanded the government of Ireland by a strong hand and no home rule.

The Daily Telegraph says: "The abandonment of the recent hopes of a settlement means trouble—trouble in Ireland and trouble in the House of Commons. We have the old millstone tied once more around our necks in a heavier and more dangerous shape than ever and we shall be fortunate if it does not hamper our progress at every step through deep waters."

The Daily News says: "The collapse of the negotiations leaves the Irish problem not merely unsettled, but worse than it has been at any time since the eighties."

The Express says: "The whole business is a deplorable tragedy. There has been a plethora of delay and misunderstanding until now we are faced with the breakdown of a political truce which has existed since the beginning of the war, and the leaders of the nation, who should be devoting all their minds to defeating the enemy, are again to be distracted by an internal feud and dissension."

The Graphic says: "Once more the attempt to establish home rule has failed, because, like previous home rule schemes, it neither satisfies Irish sentiment nor secures justice for Great Britain."

At the Barre Golf Club.

The first team match this season between the Barre Golf club and the St. Johnsbury Golf club was played off Saturday at Barre. Only six men from St. Johnsbury showed up. Four others started from St. Johnsbury but did not reach their destination, owing to a breakdown on the road. The Barre club is still going pretty strong in match play and managed to shut out the six players who started. The match ended in a win for Barre by six points to nothing. Below is the result:

Barre.	St. Johnsbury.
A. Freeland	1 Bolland
J. Stewart	1 F. C. Beck
J. Freeland	1 Rathbun
H. Brown	1 Cameron
McMillan	1 Bonfield
Hutchinson	1 Bollinger

For the 10th week of the weekly tournament there were 18 score cards turned in and some very good scoring was done. All had played some time during the week, owing to the St. Johnsbury match being scheduled for Saturday, and it is the request of the committee that the same be done this week, as the Burlington Golf club will pay their first visit to Barre on next Saturday, and anywhere from 15 to 17 players are expected to take part in this match.

The winners of points in the weekly tournament for the week ending July 22 were as follows: In class A, W. H. Johnston and L. R. Hutchinson were a tie for first and second honors, with 70 net, while A. W. Freeland and H. Brown were tied for third point with 73 net. In class B, J. C. Robertson won first point with 73 net, while D. J. McMillan and G. Brand were tied for second and third points with 74 net each.

BRITISH KEEP S. S. McCURE CUT

New York Editor Not Allowed to Land—Remains on Steamship.

London, July 26.—S. S. McCure, American publisher, has been held up by British authorities at Liverpool. He arrived there on board the steamship Philadelphia, but was informed by the authorities that for the present he would not be allowed to land.

Mr. McCure remains on board the liner pending result of official inquiries now under way, but it is reported he will be allowed to come ashore within a few hours.

At the office of the Evening Mail, of which S. S. McCure is editor in chief, it was stated that Mr. McCure had anticipated the possibility of having some difficulty in landing in England by reason of the fact that he was a member of the Ford peace party. It was announced in England while the Ford party was on the continent that no member of it would be allowed to land at any British port. Mr. McCure was unable to stop in England on his way back from the continent, but carried with him on his present trip passports properly vised and specifically naming England as his destination.

In answer to inquiries it was stated that Mr. McCure was a native of Great Britain having been born in Ulster.

BEEF STOCK HOLDS FIRM.

Prices on Sheep, Calves and Lambs Remain Steady.

Brighton, Mass., July 26.—Beef stock of all kinds was fairly firm at the Brighton stockyards yesterday morning, though offerings good enough to bring the top range were scarce.

The best pair of heavy beef cattle seen at the Brighton yards yesterday morning was held at 9½ cents, though few bids went over 9 cents. This would be about the range for the tops, good cattle being quotable at 8@9 cents and light cattle at 7@8 cents.

Best beef cows sold at a little under 7½ cents, though sales at 7½ cents for tops were common enough. Quotations were 7@7½ cents for best animals, 5½@6½ cents for good cows, 4½@5 cents for ordinary cows and 3½@4½ cents for canners.

Best bulls sold up to 7½ cents, the range for tops being 7@7½ cents, with good bulls at 5@6 cents and bologna at 4@4½ cents.

Calves were a little easier, though the best bunch lots sold readily and were well sustained. Fancy calves brought 11 cents for the best small lots, with bunch lots at 10@11 cents fair lots at 9@10 cents, and grassers and drinkers at 6@8 cents.

No change was noted in the price of live hogs, the best lots selling at 10@10½ cents, with rough lots at 9½@9¾ cents.

More lambs were noted in the yards than for some time, but prices were very firm at 9@10 cents, with sheep nominally unchanged at 6@8 cents.

Milch cows were doing a little better than last week owing to demand for milk. Prices were somewhat higher, ordinary milkers selling at $80@85, and fancy milkers at $100@125 and upward.

AMERICAN BANKERS READY TO REHABILITATE CHINA FINANCE

Representatives of Three Concerns, Including Lee, Higginson & Co., Tell Polk They Will Advance $30,000,000 Loan.

Washington, July 26.—Representatives of three big American banking houses informed Acting Secretary Polk yesterday that they were willing to advance a $30,000,000 loan desired by China to rehabilitate the finances of the republic. Their proposal, which is understood to have the full approval of the state department, is to be furnished immediately, $4,000,000 urgently needed and the remainder as desired.

Mr. Polk's callers were George C. Lee, of Lee, Higginson & Co., Willard Straight of the American International corporation and Francis S. Knight, of J. P. Morgan & Co. These firms have had the Chinese loan under consideration for some time and one of them already has advanced $1,000,000. Bonds of the Chinese republic will be accepted as security for the loan.

A Baseball Scout's Complaint.

Hugh S. Fullerton has a short story in the August American Magazine in which a professional baseball scout laments the tricks of bush league managers. One of them says:

"If a scout don't keep his eyes open those bush managers are worse than a bunch of salted mine promoters, so I don't ask any questions, but goes around snooping after Musser. Everybody in Muskegon knows all about that game, but no one knows Musser—new man. I had to hunt up the manager and take a chance of having acid enough to test his gold bricks. But this one was different. When I asked about Musser he said, 'Shush-sh-sh-shhh,' and I has to walk him around in front of the mirror so the bartender can't hear before he'll say a word. Then he leans over and says, 'Shush-sh-shhh!' College man. Rich daddy. Pitching under fake

Avoids Breakfast Cooking---

New Post Toasties are ready to eat direct from the package. They have a fine new flavour—self-developed by a new patented process. It's the rare, true flavour of prime, white Indian corn itself, and these New Toasties are the first corn flakes that do not depend on cream and sugar for palatability.

The proof of this superior flavour is found by eating some from the package dry. They're deliciously good that way, but of course are usually served with cream or good milk.

Examine the New Post Toasties flakes. The quick, fierce heat of the new process of manufacture, not only raises the distinguishing little bubbles on each flake, but gives a body and firmness that makes the New Toasties a more substantial food than ordinary "corn flakes."

New Post Toasties do not "chaff" or crumble in the package, and they don't mush down when cream is added. They come to you untouched by hand, and in moisture-proof packages that preserve their delightful oven-crispness until served at your table.

Well worth trying—these
